Hoard, Dick (Dick's 8/1),

I'm too busy to get to the camera shop today. He was lost in confusion yesterday. I was there.

Bennett rephrasing persuasive, rest less than it could be, viz WWII and what there is woven in with Jackie's observations-and their suppression on Commission order and their refusal to me.

Back measurements: Dick is right. This is redundant, except in terms of having your own, but again, redundant, visuals. Aside from what I did in PMIII and, as you know, will have in the addition, there is that single part of Forman's work that is visible. Are you not, really, trying to duplicate in a form you can claim as your own, a natural temptation? This is triviality compared to and with the knowledge of what I've shown you. Dick's is a good point: spend your time in what can yield original discovery. There is much possible.

SOB sign: when you are here again, read my Joiner file. I've got all of this, as the police reported it.

Brennan: deserves even more praise than Dick gives. Important in many ways.

Credit: Dick is incomplete and inaccurate. This is published. It is a limited edition. It is not unpublished. The address should be included, and if it is not vital, it is appropriate to say quoted with permission.

Correspondence: I've answered. The second paragrpah is good advice.

LHO innocence: agreement. Here you need not restrict yourself to what is new. You should quote (example, Carolyn Arnold, if that appeals to you).

Skolnick and Thunderbolt: thanks.

True:Robert Brown-I'd appreciate a copy. He is again in the news, today, with the Post story inadequate.

Hurriedly,
